most serious disappointments of the exhibition. The popular horseman evidently appreciated the greeting, and was in excellent spirits last night, even before Amaret vindicated himself and won the blue ribbon over distinguished company, and the pair captured the red ribbon and second prize in the pairs of hunters' class. He will be seen each night and matines hereafter until the close of the show, and is likely to go after some more ribbons. He has another promising entry in Alan Dale, entered in the green light weight hunter class Saturday afternoon. Amaret and Hornpipe are both entered in the great Corinthian class of hunters to be seen to-night. There are just twenty-nine competitors in this class, including all the best hunters at the show.

Fascination Was Winner.

In the summary of blue ribbon winners printed in yesterday's issue at the head of the Horse Show report, Mrs. Join Gerken's Newsboy was inadvertently stated as the winner of the gig locae class. As a matter of fact, Mr. G. Trowbridge Hollister's Fascination was the winner of the blue and Mrs. Gerken's handsome chestnut mover was second, getting the red ribbon. The error wat made in hurriedly making up the list of head of the column. Both are such excellent horses, that there was difficulty in choosing between them.

SOUTHERN HAS A FINE SCHEDULE

Trains Galore on Its Washington-Danville Di-

The Southern Rallway announces that it has just put on, effective since-October 4th, additional and improved passenger train service in the State of Virginia for both local and through travel. On its main line between Washington and Danville and intermediate stations, there are now inne trains each way daily, including four fast through trains, and five locals. Trains No. 3 and 19 make all local stops between Washington and Danville, making the trip in nine hours. Nos. 35 and 36 are the fast mails south and north, making the distunce across the State in a trifle more than six hours and bringing the northern papers and mail through. Nos. 20 and 39 make most stops, and cover the distance in less than six hours and a half. Nos. 41 and 42 run from Lynchburg to Washington, a five hour schedule, Nos. 39 and 49 make no stops between Charlottesville and Lynchburg. The Southern Rallway announces that schedule, Nos. 39 and 49 make no stops between Charlottesville and Lynchburg, and make the distance between Danville and Washington in six hours and a half. Nos. 37 and 38 are the through vestbuled limited trains, making the trip in a little less than seven hours. Nos. 19 and 20 are local trains between Charlottesville and Danville, making the 120-odd miles in five hours. Nos. 13, 14, 15 and 18 are local trains strictly.

five hours, Nos. 13, 14, 15 and 16 are local trains strictly.

Between Richmond and Danville there are three daily trains seach way, all going through, and one from Richmond to Keysville and wice versa. Nos. 7 and 8, the fast trains make the distance in four and a half hours, and No. 11 and 12 in even quicker time. Nos. 13 and 14 make about the same time schedule. the same time schedule.
Other improvements in service are offered on the branch lines, and altogether there is a marked improvement. The peo-ple of the State cannot fall to appreciate these changes which add greatly to their convenience and the accessibility of their home to and from the cities of the State and the country.

Pleasures of Prejudice.

This animated duel of words took place many decades back on the streets of the national capital. These streets then were mere roads and often stepping-stones were the sole means of crossing from side to side. The persons engaged were men who formed an integral part of the Federal Union, their wit and eloquence alike passing from mouth to mouth, as the daily papers were then unknown.

Now we live in ampler, fuller times. "Smoother times and sleeker men" is the way an eminent artist in words has it. At any rate, our streets are better and we should know the luxury of living.

CANADA UNITED IN SUP-PORTING CHAMBERLAIN

(By Associated Press,)
LONDON, October 15.—Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadia ex-premier, who sailed from Liverpool for Canada to-day, in the course of an interview, declared that Canada was perfectly united in supporting Mr. Chamberlain. He thought that a grain duty of two shillings per quarter was small, but seld it would encourage emigration and help the Canadian farmers to some extent. He thought it an excellent thing that Americans were mocking into the Northwest in large numbers. This, he declared, would not Americanize the Dominion, because the American preferred Canadian institutions to their own. (By Associated Press.)
